Here, Brian O' Raleigh spins an engrossing story of passion, loss and redemption that will have you glued to the pages. When 38 year old Conner O'Rourke returns to Ireland after an absence of 30 years he s running. His advertising agency in Sydney is in difficulties, his marriage is falling apart and he s hearing voices in his mind urging him to return to Inis Mor. His grandmother, whom he hasn t seen in years, has contacted him saying she s critically ill and must speak with him but when he arrives on Inis Mor, a wild, windswept, rocky little island some 30 miles off the West Coast of Ireland, she s already passed leaving him a cottage and a dilapidated old sailing boat. A mysterious old seaman appears offering to help him rebuild the boat and as they work together the old man tells Conner stories of Ireland. Stories of courage, purpose and passion, stories that...
