Not illustrated. 1888 Excerpt: .and policeman Pumphrey heard of it from another officer. A few minutes later as he was patrolling Dover street near Green, it being then half-past five o'clock in the morning and dark, he saw a young negro standing in the second story window of a house smoking a cigar. He thought this a rather suspicious occurrence, and he determined to investigate the circumstance as soon as the negro left his house. It was ten o'clock before he saw the fellow go out. Then under pretence of wishing to inspect the sanitary condition of the house, officer Pumphrey got into the room in which he had seen the negro smoking that morning. There he found on the bed two blankets which had been stolen from Broderick Brothers, and also a number of other articles, proceeds of the same burglary. Pumphrey waited until the thief returned...
